

Unit 2 Assignment

Please complete the following tasks to signify your successful completion of Units 1 and 2.

- Send an email message to stahl_howard@smc.edu. Inside this email, copy and paste the following declaration:

"I have read and understood SMC's Academic Honesty Policy as posted on the CS 83R website. I understand that all work I submit must be 100% my own, original effort. Should I fail to abide by these policies, I am aware that I may receive a 0 on any plagiarized work as well as receive an F in this course as well as face SMC academic penalties."

YOU CANNOT JOIN THIS SECTION WITHOUT CREATING THIS ENTRY.

LET THERE BE NO DOUBT THAT EACH AND EVERY ITEM TURNED IN WITH YOUR NAME IN THIS CLASS MUST BE 100%, COMPLETELY YOUR OWN INDIVIDUAL EFFORT. YOU MAY NOT WORK WITH OTHER STUDENTS. YOU MAY NOT SHARE CODE OR SOLUTIONS WITH OTHER STUDENTS. YOU MUST DO YOUR OWN WORK. THIS COURSE HAS A ZERO-TOLERANCE POLICY FOR CHEATING. FAILURE TO FOLLOW THESE RULES WILL RESULT IN SEVERE PENALTIES, INCLUDING THE GRADE OF 'F' AND/OR COLLEGE DISCIPLINARY ACTIONS.

- Review the threaded discussion group from time-to-time. It's available from the Forum named "Discussion Board" link. Please create a posting there should you have any question about the homework or course content that, perhaps, other students as well as myself may answer.

- Provide me information that verifies that your software universe is correctly working. If you are planning to use the pre-loaded software available from the Business Computer Lab computers, please upload text file below whose contents says that. Otherwise, please take a screenshot of a Command Prompt or Terminal Session where you execute the following commands that show the software versions you have installed:

ruby -v
rails -v

For your information, Assignments uploaded in this fashion are time-stamped and saved so that I can retrieve them later. Only I can read your assignments. As I mentioned before, I prefer you use this method to turn in your homework. Please only use email if the site is not working.
